1. What is AME?

Aircraft Maintenance Engineering (AME) is a high profile career with high dignity and responsibility. AME is responsible for safety, security and maintenance of an aircraft. Aircraft Maintenance Engineers are specially trained to carry out complex maintenance process including periodical maintenance programs as per the Aircraft manufacturer's requirements and issue Flight Release Certificate for safety before take off the flight. To carry out this maintenance process and issue Flight Release Certificate (FRC) an individual has to undergo 2 years of approved academic program in approved institution as well as 2 years training in recognised organisations to obtain an Aircraft Maintenance Engineers License from Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), Ministry of Civil Aviation, Government of India.

Safety is a very important issue, when it comes to the aviation sector. An aircraft is made of numerous parts, engines, electrical and electronic systems etc. With time and use, parts tend to wear and tear down, thus regular inspection and maintenance of aircraft have become very necessary. Aircraft Maintenance Engineering professionals are trained to inspect an aircraft, diagnose problems, report the problems found and finally solve them.

Before a flight takes off, AME professionals work hard and make sure that each and every system available in the aircraft is in working condition. They ensure that the safety standards are being followed and the aircraft is flight worthy. In short, AME professionals play a very crucial role in the smooth functioning of the aviation sector.

To become an AME professional, one must possess a maintenance engineer license issued by the DGCA (Directorate General of Civil Aviation). To obtain this license, one must successfully go through the AME academic program from a DGCA approved institute and live training in a flying environment. AME training course is divided into 4 semesters.

There are categories in which a candidate can take AME License in:-

A: - This license allows maintaining the aircrafts within limit.

- Category A1.1:- This license allows to work as technician and maintaining the aeroplanes with jet engine.
- Category A1.2:- This license allows to work as technician and maintaining the aeroplanes with piston engine.
- Category A1.3:- This license allows to work as technician and maintaining the helicopters with jet engine.
- Category A1.4:- This license allows to work as technician and maintaining the helicopters with piston engine.

B1:- B1 license is the mechanical stream which deals with engines, wings and many other components.

- Category B1.1:- This license is regarding the maintenance of jet engine aeroplanes. A jet engine creates force by releasing a high speed jet of a liquid or a gas.
- Category B1.2:- This license is regarding the maintenance of piston engine aeroplanes. A piston engine is typically a heat engine that uses one or more reciprocating pistons to convert pressure into a rotating motion.
- Category B1.3:- This license is regarding the maintenance of jet engine helicopters. The engine that accelerates and discharges a fast moving jet of fluid to generate thrust in accordance with Newton's third law of motion as known as jet engine.
- Category B1.4:- This license is regarding the maintenance of piston engine helicopters. Piston engine is an internal combustion engine that uses one or more reciprocating pistons to convert pressure into a rotational motion.
